

INVESTIGATING EXISTING PRODUCTS

We can learn about ways to make a new product by studying those that have been made already. We can evaluate how effective they are. We can use this information, by using the most successful techniques and avoiding common mistakes.

Use the space below to complete drawings of existing products or collect photographs of them. Remember to label the drawings and photos.

Record what you have found out and learned.

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---